Andrew Pellathy, Penguins TribLIVE Junior Reporter, meets Teddy Blueger

My experience as a TribLive Jr. Reporter was extraordinary, and I had an amazing time. As I walked through the UPMC Lemieux Sports Complex doors for the first time in my life, I felt a little bit nervous, but I was mostly really excited. When I arrived, we sat down in the bleachers to watch the Penguins practice. The practice was fast and exciting, and I loved watching it! As I observed Teddy Blueger and the other players shoot back and forth, I was starting to get the hang of the plays they were running. I thought about some of the plays and how talented the players were.

After the practice was over, I entered the locker room to ask the players some questions. I was very nervous, because I had never interviewed a hockey player before, much less a professional one! So, I followed what the rest of the press was doing, and it felt like I was a famous reporter. Before I entered the locker room, I had to get mic'ed up. They clipped the mic box onto my pocket, and the microphone itself clipped onto my collar. I also held a separate, larger microphone when I was in the locker room. It was heavier than I expected, but I didn't mind. While I was in the locker room, I asked Casey Desmith about what I should ask Teddy. Casey jokingly told me, "You can ask Teddy anything, but I guess you can ask why he did such a poor job designing my helmet last year." When I brought it up with Teddy, he answered, "Well the fans seemed to like it, and I thought I did a good job."

Afterwards, I went to the interview room to talk to Teddy. His responses were cheerful, like when I asked, "Who has the smelliest gear?", he immediately answered, "Sid for sure." I was a little shy, since it was my first time interviewing a professional athlete, but it was very fun to interview Teddy. He always had plenty of answers to give me. I wrote down everything I could and continued with the interview. Sometimes, I enjoyed talking to Teddy so much that I forgot to write his answers down! After the interview was over, I thanked Teddy for his time, shook his hand, and got his autograph! The staff and organization were always very nice to me, even when I messed up a little.

I had an amazing time watching the Pittsburgh Penguins practice, and an even better time interviewing Teddy. I am so grateful for this opportunity to be able to be a TribLive Jr. Reporter, and I had a great experience.
